

Household Expenditure Survey and Survey of Income and Housing Costs

7 July 2003 - 3 July 2004

Paper Version of Questionnaire

EXPLANATORY NOTES

This Paper Version of the Questionnaire is designed to assist survey developers, interviewers and office processing staff working on HES/SIHC.

Interviewers can use the Paper Version as a useful adjunct while reading the Interviewer's Instructions, completing Home Study Exercises, and to gain an overview of HES/SIHC if their notebook computers are not available.

The Paper Version is divided into the Group Questionnaire and the Individual Questionnaire. Each section has its own index which shows the module sequence number, name and identifier. Each page has a header showing the module sequence number and identifier. Although this document does not have page numbers, the indexes and headers should make it easy to quickly find the module you require.

Four pieces of information are provided for each module.

Sequence: a numerical identifier which shows the position of the module within the questionnaire (e.g. Sequence = 2.1);

Module ID: an identifier consisting of nine or fewer letters which relates to the name of the module (e.g. Module Identifier = DWELSTR)

Module name: a descriptive identifier which relates to the content of the module (e.g. Module name = Dwelling Structure); and Population: an explanation of which respondents should be sequenced into the module (e.g. Population = ALL).

Some populations such as 'ALL' (i.e. all HES and SIHC respondents), 'HES' and 'Persons aged 18 years or more' are self-explanatory. Other populations such as 'LOAN1, exclude FIACE1' and 'HASJOB3', which are derived from respondent's answers, are more complex. As this survey is conducted using CAI rather than pen and paper, sequencing of populations is done automatically by the computer. Therefore, this document does not show sequencing between modules.

Sequencing within modules depends on respondent answers to each question. The next question to be asked for each response code is shown down the right side of the page. 'END' means that the respondent has ended that module and will be sequenced by the computer to the next appropriate module.

Some questions have intentionally been left blank. Coding has ensured that these questions do not appear in the instrument, although they do appear in this Paper Version.
